

Immunization Cuts Disease, Figures Show

Extensive use of diphtheria immunization and smallpox vaccination is responsible for the rapid decrease in these diseases in Los Angeles county, according to Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, county health officer.

Figures just released by the county health department show that from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1939, a total of 23,516 diphtheria immunizations were given in county clinics. This represents an increase of over 40 per cent in the last year and a half. Children between the ages of five and eight received the majority of these immunization treatments. That diphtheria can be practically eradicated by immunization of children with toxoid has been demonstrated in numerous places. Dr. Pomeroy advises that every child be immunized early in life, preferably as soon as possible after the age of nine months.

During the same period county health department clinics performed 14,161 smallpox vaccinations, an increase during the last 18 months of more than 20 per cent. The age groups five to eight years and 14 years and over received the majority of these vaccinations. In order to minimize the danger of smallpox, parents are urged by health officials to have their children vaccinated before they enter kindergarten.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Summers and children, former residents of Torrance now living in Pasadena, visited friends here Sunday.

Police Captain G. M. Calder has been confined at his home for the past two weeks with a severe attack of influenza.

TRIO SEEKS CITY COUNCIL SEATS AS UNIT

GEORGE V. POWELL

WM. J. LOUGHRIDGE

Headed by City Councilman George V. Powell who is seeking re-election, a ticket known as the "Greater Torrance" group is conducting a vigorous campaign for seating William J. Loughridge of Walteria and Gordon L. Mann of North Torrance on the council with the incumbent on April 9.

Powell, who has served on the municipal board for four years, states that "in order to bring about needed reform, help is necessary," and with his running mates' assistance he stands pledged to "serve, administer and promote honesty in the service and business affairs of our city government." He promises just representation of the outlying districts' needs.

Loughridge points out that "a civic unity is the first requirement in order that Torrance, during the next 10 years, makes far greater strides in its development and growth than in the past decade. A business man's ideas and experience would be of real value at the council table in helping to bring about economy and efficiency in city government," the Walteria candidate states.

Declaring that he is in complete accord with Powell and Loughridge in that all areas of the city "are entitled to representation on the city council," Mann says that "only in this way can the outlying communities get the incentive to participate actively in the growth and betterment of our city." If elected, he asserts he will work with his co-candidates "to bring about an economic, efficient city government, honestly conducted and fair to business and labor alike."

Need of True Religion Cited by Pastor Here

In extending his annual Easter greetings to the community, Rev. Father Joseph V. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Catholic Church of the Nativity, points out this week that religion, dogma and theology are vital to the future welfare of the nation.

"As we are in the midst of Holy Week of 1940, a few thoughts may be timely on fundamentals which should guide us on our journey toward eternity," he wrote. "America, it is said, is suffering from intolerance. It is not. It is suffering from tolerance; tolerance of right and wrong, truth and error, virtue and evil, Christ and chaos."

"Statistics show that 13 million children are growing up in America without adequate religious teaching. 'As the twig is bent the tree's inclined' wrote the great English writer Pope. This, the report states, is the fault of parents who are so broad-minded and so self-possessed of liberty that they allow the younger generation to grow up without proper reverence for religion and without due respect for the true principles of liberty and democracy.

Fundamental Truths
"Religion is a science and must have its qualified spokesmen and has a right to be heard. Religion is not a matter of individual experience, individual needs or sentiment. Religion is based on fundamental truths given us by God and demanding a qualified spokesman to present these truths in the light of reason, Scripture and tradition."

"There are thousands of weak-minded people who say they believe in religion but not in dogmas or theology. Such minds might just as well say 'I believe in dentistry but not in dentists' or 'I believe in health but not in the dogmas about digestion, vitamins or assimilation.'

Divine Dogmas Extolled
"The Christian religion must have its dogmas, that is, it must believe in one God and three divine Persons as well as the mathematician believes in two and two makes four. It must believe in the divinity of Christ and the divinity of the Church founded by Him. It must believe in divine power to teach and baptize.

"During this Holy Season of the year we must try, with the aid of reason, Scripture, tradition and the Church, to follow the dogmas of the Ten Commandments so that we may come to a closer and more real knowledge of our creation, to know God, to love God and to serve God in this world. This is a dogma of divine revelation which should be practiced by every American and handed down to our future citizens." Father Fitzgerald concluded.
